DESCRIPTION OF THE BUSINESS

Overview

NeuPath's mission is to improve access to care and outcomes for patients by leveraging best-in-class treatments and delivering patient-centred multidisciplinary care, enabling each individual to live their best life.

The Corporation's vision is to build the leading national network of clinics, recognized for their best-in-class quality of care, empathy-driven efficient service and leading-edge techniques to treat patients with chronic medical conditions.

The Corporation operates a network of medical clinics in Ontario and Alberta that provide comprehensive assessments and rehabilitation services to clients with chronic pain, musculoskeletal/back injuries, sports related injuries and concussions. NeuPath's healthcare providers cover a broad range of specialties and include: Psychiatrists, Neurologists, Anesthesiologists, Orthopedic surgeons, General Practitioners with specialized training in chronic pain, as well as Medication Management Physicians, Athletic Therapists, Psychotherapists, Dieticians, Nurses and other allied health practitioners.

The Corporation also provides workplace health services and independent medical assessments to employers and disability insurers, as well as legal practices, through a national network of healthcare providers, including: Cardiologists, Dentists, Dermatologists, Endocrinologists, Psychiatrists, Gastroenterologists, General Practitioners, Internal Medicine Specialists, Neurologists, Neuropsychiatrists, Neuropsychologists, Occupational Therapists, Ophthalmologists, Orthopedic Surgeons, Psychiatrists, Physiotherapists, Psychologists, Respiriologists and Rheumatologists.

The Corporation has 12 locations across Ontario and two locations in Alberta staffed with more than 165 healthcare providers. In addition, the Corporation has a minority equity ownership in two physiotherapy and sport medicine clinics in Alberta.

Markets

The Corporation competes in the chronic pain, sports medicine, concussion and workplace health services markets in Canada. Conditions often coexist amongst these distinct markets, for example, chronic pain is one of the known consequences of a traumatic brain injury. NeuPath believes that having the ability to treat these often-coexisting conditions and building collaborative, interdisciplinary teams of healthcare providers are distinct competitive advantages and are important foundations for improving patient care.

Chronic Pain

According to the Global Burden of Disease Study, chronic pain is the 4th most burdensome disease or condition¹ impacting approximately 1 in 5 adults worldwide². Despite chronic pain's prevalence and impact, it has only recently started to attract increased attention. In May 2019, the World Health Organization, for the first time, added chronic pain to its International Classification of Diseases. The International Classification of Diseases is used worldwide as a diagnostic tool to classify causes of injury or death and the addition of chronic pain will allow for better tracking of the impact and prevalence of chronic pain. In addition, the Canadian federal government formed the Canadian Pain Task Force in March 2019 to assess how chronic pain is currently managed and make recommendations for improvement. Both of these initiatives have increased attention on chronic pain.

Products and Services

Clinical Services

For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2023, clinical services accounted for 92% (94% in 2022) of the Corporation's revenue.

1. Chronic Pain Management Services – The Corporation's Multimodal Approach

Chronic pain is a multidimensional condition impacted by biological, behavioural and social factors⁴. The Corporation's health providers consider each of these factors when assessing and treating each patient. Traditional medical treatments may be supplemented as appropriate with access to medical cannabis, the Corporation's Chronic Pain Self-Management Program and mindfulness meditation. This multimodal approach goes beyond treating the pain sensation and targets some of the underlying and contributing behavioural and social factors. In addition, the multimodal approach provides patients with the education and tools needed to help self-manage their chronic condition.

The Corporation generates revenue by providing both insured and uninsured services to patients. Insured services include treatments or procedures covered by provincial health plans and third-party health insurance plans. In most cases, the insurer is billed directly by the Corporation. Uninsured services include treatments and procedures that are not covered by provincial health plans or third-party health insurance plans and are billed directly to patients. For example, therapeutic botox injections are not covered by provincial health plans and, depending on a patient's third-party health insurance coverage, may not be covered by third-party insurance. In this instance, the patient would need to pay out-of-pocket for the treatment.

Generally, patients are referred to the Corporation's clinics by family physicians, specialists, dentists, nurse practitioners or other allied health professionals after experiencing pain for at least three months. Prior to their first visit, patients complete an extensive questionnaire. The questionnaire is designed to gain a better understanding of the patient's pain, the impact of such pain on their life, and the patient's medical history and lifestyle. Patients then complete an assessment with one of the Corporation's chronic pain practitioners. The goal of the assessment is to gain a better understanding of the patient's condition in order to create a treatment plan. Every patient is different from a biological, behavioural, and social perspective, so treatment plans reflect these differences and vary from patient to patient. Common elements of treatment plans include:

- (a) Injection-based and Interventional Therapies: The Corporation's physicians inject analgesics around a specific nerve or bundle of nerves with the goal of reducing pain intensity. These analgesic injections are covered to varying degrees by provincial health plans. Nerve fibres may also be targeted by the insertion of specialized radiofrequency ablation ("RFA") needles which use thermal energy to disable nerve fibres and reduce or eliminate pain intensity. In addition, the Corporation also offers therapeutic Botox injections for the treatment and prevention of chronic migraines. Botox injections are covered by some third-party health insurance plans.
- (b) Infusion Therapies: At select clinic locations, the Corporation offers intravenous lidocaine and ketamine infusion therapies for the treatment of neuropathic pain, complex regional pain syndrome, and chronic diabetic neuropathy. In general, provincial health insurance plans offer coverage for certain intravenous infusion therapies.

- (c) Chronic Pain Programs: NeuPath offers various programs to assist patients who are struggling with chronic pain. This includes a self-management program based on research conducted at Stanford University, called Empowered Relief, as well as our physiatrist-driven multi-clinic program in Alberta. These programs employ a psychoeducational and cognitive behavioral approach which helps patients better understand chronic pain and teaches non-medicated coping strategies and goal setting. Similar programs have shown significant short-term improvements in pain, dependency, vitality, aspects of role functioning, life satisfaction and self-efficacy⁵.
- (d) Optimization of Pharmacotherapy: The Canadian Pain Society's guidelines for the treatment of neuropathic pain recommend gabapentinoids, tricyclic antidepressants, and serotonin-norepinephrine reuptake inhibitors as first-line agents for treating neuropathic pain. Tramadol and other opioids are also recommended as second-line agents for treating neuropathic pain and some physicians may also prescribe medical cannabis through licensed providers. Often, the treatments patients receive at the Corporation's clinics will allow the Corporation's physicians to optimize, reduce, eliminate, or replace patients' other pain medications.

2. Workplace Health Services

The Corporation also provides workplace health services and independent medical assessments to law firms, employers and disability insurers through a national network of health care providers.

Spending on employee benefit group life and health plans in Canada were estimated to be $46.1 billion in 2019, with $21.9 billion spent on medical benefits⁶. A significant portion of this cost is allocated to traditional benefits such as medical, dental, and life/AD&D. According to a recent report by the Conference Board of Canada, healthcare costs in Canada are expected to increase substantially over the next decade due to an aging population, combined with population growth and the impact of COVID-19⁷. Without substantial increases in public funding, Canadians could experience a reduction in access to care and employers could see a corresponding increase in lost productivity.

A study completed by Deloitte in 2019 found that employers are increasingly aware that conditions like mental illness are costly for employers⁸. As a result, some employers are investing in workplace mental health initiatives and, more importantly, are generating a positive return on investment. Based on early experiences with workplace mental health initiatives, employers may look to implement other workplace health initiatives to address conditions like pain that impact absenteeism, presenteeism and reduce short- and/or long-term disability.

Non-Clinical Services

For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2023, non-clinical services accounted for 8% (6% in 2022) of the Corporation's revenue.

1. Physician Staffing Services

The Corporation provides physician staffing for provincial and federal correctional institutions across Canada. The Corporation receives compensation for physician staffing services on a quote pay per use and quote basis, which is calculated at an hourly rate.

2. Research

Through a wholly owned subsidiary, NeuPath provides contract research services to pharmaceutical companies. More importantly, these clinical research capabilities allow the Corporation to evaluate the efficacy of new and existing services and treatments. On April 11, 2023, the findings of a 562-patient study focused on chronic pain and the impact of NeuPath's treatments on patients' lives was published in the online journal *Cureus*⁹. The study participants, who previously reported low levels of functioning across several daily life activities, experienced significant improvements in all measured daily life activities after undergoing NeuPath's interdisciplinary treatment. The results of this study present an exciting opportunity for NeuPath to improve the quality of life for patients by applying cutting-edge and research-driven best practices.

Business and Growth Strategy

Regional Approach to Pain Management Clinics

The Corporation seeks to develop leading positions in key markets and to leverage operational efficiencies by combining smaller local pain management clinics within a region under a single regional management structure. The Corporation's scale and density within selected geographic areas provides valuable and mutually beneficial long-term relationships with the local physicians, local nurse practitioners and the community in general.

Patient Centered Treatment Model

The Corporation provides patients with assessments and treatment plans based on the biopsychosocial approach. Research demonstrates the efficacy of the biopsychosocial approach in assessing and treating chronic pain. NeuPath believes this multimodal approach offers patients a superior alternative to the traditional monomodal treatments and long wait times at multidisciplinary pain clinics.

Growth Strategy

The Corporation's growth strategy is focused on three key pillars:

Increased capacity utilization - The Corporation's focus is to generate revenue growth by improving capacity utilization at its existing medical clinics. To achieve this objective, the Corporation intends to continue adding complementary services and healthcare provider hours, with a focus on improving patient throughput. For the year ended December 31, 2023, capacity utilization was 68% compared to 62% in the comparative year.

Expanding the network - The Corporation intends to build out a pan-Canadian network through acquisitions and new clinic startups. The market for medical clinics is highly fragmented in Canada and the Corporation acquired HealthPointe in Edmonton in February 2021 as the first step in its expansion into Western Canada. On September 22, 2021, the Corporation entered into a partnership with CAO to open an interdisciplinary pain institute in Red Deer, Alberta. The clinic opened to patients in July 2022 and ownership of the newly formed corporation is split 50/50 between HealthPointe and CAO. On January 12, 2024, the Corporation acquired the assets of SIBI Medical Inc., operating as the London Spine Centre in London, Ontario and will continue to serve patients from the existing location, with no changes in operations for patients, physicians and staff.

Expanding into adjacent markets - Orthopedics and other specialties have patients with high overlap to the Corporation's core chronic pain business, and the Corporation is actively evaluating new opportunities in these areas.

The Corporation's facilities may also be utilized, with modest investment, to provide other services such as out-of-hospital surgery.

While executing on the growth strategy, NeuPath is focused on improved operating margins and has made changes to its corporate functions and its clinic footprint and will continue to evaluate opportunities for improving margins across the network.

Locations

The Corporation currently operates 14 chronic pain management clinics across Alberta and Ontario, all of which operate in leased office space. The Corporation previously had one clinic at a property owned by a subsidiary of the Corporation, which was sold on August 31, 2023. See "General Development of Business – Fiscal 2023 (January 1, 2023 – December 31, 2023)" for further information. In addition, the Corporation has a minority equity ownership in two physiotherapy and sport medicine clinics in Alberta.

The Corporation's leased properties are all leased from third parties on terms and conditions that are customary in commercial leases of this nature. Each of the Corporation's leased properties are listed below:

Competitive Conditions

The primary healthcare market is a very fragmented environment with thousands of medical clinics spread across Canada and the majority of these clinics are owned and managed by physicians. A lack of professional management and other associated infrastructure limits their ability to grow beyond a single location or small, regional network of clinics. In Ontario, there are more than 60 chronic pain management clinics alone, many of which are single-location clinics without broad programs or scaling efficiencies. With 14 clinics across Canada, the Corporation is the largest provider of chronic pain management services in Canada.

Employees

As at December 31, 2023, the Corporation had 156 employees. In addition, the Corporation uses the services of professional consultants, such as physician consultants from time to time. As of December 31, 2023, approximately 65 employees are represented by a union covered by a collective bargaining agreement entered into in June 2021 and remains in effect until March 2025.

RISK FACTORS

The Corporation considers the risks set out below to be the most significant to potential investors in the Corporation, but this list does not contain all of the risks associated with an investment in the securities of the Corporation. If any of these risks materialize into actual events or circumstances or other possible additional risks and uncertainties of which the Corporation is currently unaware or which it considers not to be currently material in relation to the Corporation's business actually occur, the Corporation's assets, liabilities, financial condition, results of operations (including future results of operations), business and business prospects are likely to be materially and adversely affected. In such circumstances, the price of the Common Shares may decline and investors may lose all or part of their investment. Investors should carefully consider the risk factors set out below and all other information contained in this AIF and in the Corporation's other public filings before making an investment decision. An investment in the Common Shares is speculative and involves a high degree of risk due to the nature of the Corporation's business. It is recommended that investors consult with their own professional advisors before investing in the Common Shares.

Risk Factors relating to the Corporation's Business and Industry

Governmental regulation and funding, permits and licenses

Government regulations and funding play a key role in the Canadian healthcare sector. Any alleged failure by the Corporation to comply with applicable laws and regulations may lead to the imposition of fines and penalties or the denial, revocation or delay in the renewal of permits and licenses issued by governmental authorities. Furthermore, government policy related to healthcare spending can change and decisions can be made regarding funding that are largely beyond the Corporation's control. For example, if government funding for healthcare becomes limited, the Corporation's future customers may be unable to pay their obligations on a timely basis or to make payment in full and it may become necessary to increase reserves. Any change in governmental regulation, delisting of services, and licensing requirements relating to healthcare services could adversely affect the Corporation's financial condition and results of operations. In addition, complying with changes in government regulations could require significant investments or could result in increased costs for the Corporation. The Corporation may also be subject to audits, fines, or other penalties in the event of non-compliance with regulations, either existing or proposed. Non-compliance could also adversely affect the reputation, operations or financial performance of the Corporation.

Geographic concentration

All of the Corporation's clinics are located in Canada, specifically in the Province of Ontario and the Province of Alberta. As a result, the Corporation's performance will be particularly sensitive to economic, political and regulatory changes in Canada, generally, and in the Province of Ontario and the Province of Alberta, specifically. Adverse changes in the economic condition, political or regulatory environment in Canada, generally, and in the Province of Ontario and the Province of Alberta, specifically may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Reliance on healthcare professionals

Physicians and other healthcare professionals provide essential services to the Corporation. An interruption, either temporary or permanent, in services provided by physicians and other healthcare professionals to the Corporation or its patients could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows. In addition, the Corporation's growth initiatives heavily rely on securing the services of additional physicians and other healthcare professionals. There are periodic shortages of certain medical physicians in Canada and this may affect the Corporation's ability to secure the services of additional physicians and other healthcare practitioners in order to successfully execute the Corporation's growth initiatives.

As of December 31, 2023, approximately 65 employees are represented by a union covered by a collective bargaining agreement. While the Corporation maintains a positive relationship with its respective union, future renegotiations of the collective bargaining agreement could result in work disruption including work stoppages or work slowdowns. Should a work stoppage occur, it could interrupt the Corporation's operations at the impacted clinics, which in turn could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Future acquisitions

While the Corporation is focused on growing its business organically, acquisitions and other strategic transactions remain an important part of the Corporation's growth strategy. The Corporation may acquire assets or businesses that it believes will provide more tools or allow the Corporation to provide more patients with the care and tools they need to live a complete and fulfilled life. In the future, the Corporation may not be able to successfully identify attractive acquisitions or other strategic transaction opportunities or make acquisitions or other strategic transactions on terms that are satisfactory to the Corporation from a commercial perspective. In addition, competition for acquisitions in the industries in which the Corporation operates may increase the price of acquisitions or other strategic transactions, which could cause the Corporation to refrain from making certain acquisitions. The Corporation's ability to execute on opportunities may also be affected by factors beyond its control, including without limitation, commercial or regulatory changes. On January 12, 2024, the Corporation completed the acquisition of the assets of SIBI Medical Inc., operating as the London Spine Centre in London, Ontario. See "General Development of Business – Fiscal 2024 (January 1, 2024 – March 14, 2024)" for further information. The Corporation's acquisition strategy involves numerous risks, including, without limitation:

- i. certain of the Corporation's acquisitions may prove unprofitable and fail to generate anticipated cash flows;
- ii. to successfully manage a growing portfolio of medical services businesses and other properties, the Corporation may need to recruit additional senior management as there can be no assurance that senior management of acquired companies will continue to work for the Corporation and, in a highly competitive labour market, the Corporation cannot be certain that any of its recruiting efforts will succeed. In addition, the Corporation may need to expand corporate infrastructure to facilitate the integration of its operations with those of acquired properties, because failure to do so may cause the Corporation to lose the benefits of any expansion that it decides to undertake by leading to disruptions in the Corporation's ongoing businesses or by distracting management;
- iii. entry into markets and geographic areas where the Corporation has limited or no experience;
- iv. the Corporation may encounter difficulties in the integration of operations and systems, app technology or other software infrastructure;
- v. management's attention may be diverted from other business concerns; and
- vi. the Corporation may lose key employees of acquired companies.

Growth initiatives

The Corporation's ability to successfully grow its business through increasing utilization rates at existing clinics and through acquisitions will be dependent on a number of factors, including: successfully recruiting and training additional healthcare providers, attracting sufficient referrals from new and existing healthcare providers, the identification of suitable acquisition targets in both new and existing markets, the negotiation of purchase agreements on satisfactory terms and prices, securing attractive financing arrangements, and the integration of newly acquired operations into the existing business. Any acquisition will involve a number of risks, including: the inability to integrate the operations, personnel and information systems of the acquired business, the potential acquisition of previously undisclosed liabilities, the possibility that the Corporation pays more than the acquired business is worth, the increase in the operating complexity of the Corporation as a result of the acquisition, and the potential disruption of the Corporation's ongoing business and the diversion of management's attention from its day-to-day operations. Any failure by the Corporation to manage its acquisition strategy successfully could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Reliance on third-party referrals

The success of the Corporation's business depends, in part, in its ability to attract new patients, particularly in markets in which the Corporation has limited clinics or no brand awareness. In order to expand its patient base in these markets as well as existing markets, the Corporation depends on patient referrals from unaffiliated physicians, nurse practitioners and other third parties who have no contractual obligations to refer patients to the Corporation's clinics. If a significant number of physicians and other third parties were to discontinue or significantly reduce the rate at which they refer patients to the Corporation's clinics, the Corporation's treatment volume could materially decrease, which would reduce its revenue and operating margins, which could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business and financial condition.

Cybersecurity and information technology

The Corporation relies on information technology to process, transmit and store sensitive and confidential data, including protected health information, personally identifiable information, and proprietary and confidential business performance data. As a result, the Corporation and/or its customers are exposed to risks related to cybersecurity. Such risks may include unauthorized access, use, or disclosure of sensitive information (including confidential patient health records), corruption or destruction of data, or operational disruption resulting from system impairment (e.g., malware). Cyber-threats and cyber-attacks vary in technique and sources, are persistent, frequently change and are increasingly becoming more sophisticated, targeted and difficult to detect and prevent. Third parties to whom the Corporation outsources certain functions, or with whom their systems interface, are also subject to the risks outlined above and may not have or use appropriate controls to protect confidential information. A breach or attack affecting a third-party service provider or partner could harm the Corporation's business even if the Corporation does not control the service that is attacked.

The Corporation's operations depend, in part, on how well it protects networks, equipment, information technology systems and software against damage from a number of threats, including, but not limited to, damage to hardware, computer viruses, hacking and theft. The Corporation's operations also depend on the timely maintenance, upgrade and replacement of networks, equipment, information technology systems and software, as well as pre-emptive expenses to mitigate the risks of failures. A compromise of the Corporation's information technology or confidential information, or that of the Corporation's patients and third parties with whom the Corporation interacts, may result in negative consequences, including the inability to process patient transactions, reputational harm affecting patient and/or investor confidence, potential liability under privacy, security, consumer protection or other applicable laws, regulatory penalties and additional regulatory scrutiny, any of which could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows for which the Corporation's insurance policies may not provide adequate compensation.

In addition, the jurisdictions in which the Corporation operates have adopted breach of privacy and data security laws or regulations that require notification to consumers if the security of their personal information is breached, among other requirements. A Parliamentary Committee has recently recommended certain changes to Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (Canada), the federal privacy and data protection statute in Canada, including new administrative enforcement powers and new financial penalties for non-compliance. There is a risk that the government may implement changes to this statute that may result in additional compliance or changes in our business practices, or create additional risk of liability or sanction, or all of the foregoing. In addition, governmental focus on data security may lead to additional legislative action, and the increased emphasis on information security may lead patients to request that the Corporation take additional measures to enhance security or restrict the manner in which the Corporation collects and uses patient information. As a result, the Corporation may have to modify its business systems and practices with the goal of further improving data security, which would result in increased expenditures and operating complexity.

The Corporation's ongoing risk and exposure to these matters is partially attributable to the evolving nature of these threats. As a result, cybersecurity and the continued development and enhancement of controls, processes and practices designed to protect systems, computers, software, data and networks from attack, damage, malfunction, human error, technological error or unauthorized access is a priority. As cyber-threats continue to evolve, the Corporation may be required to expand additional resources to continue to modify or enhance protective measures or to investigate and remediate any security vulnerabilities.

Competition

The Corporation operates in competitive markets that can change rapidly and are highly impacted by the actions of other market participants. Aside from government regulations, licensing requirements, and relationships the Corporation has built up with healthcare providers, insurance companies, employers, and patients, there is little to prevent the entrance of new competitors providing similar services to those that are provided by the Corporation. There can be no assurance that the Corporation will be able to compete effectively for referrals from healthcare providers or insurance companies if better capitalized or more experienced competitors enter the Corporation's markets. In addition, new competitors could make it difficult for the Corporation to recruit new healthcare providers.

Reliance on key personnel

The Corporation is highly dependent upon its executive officers and key personnel. The unexpected loss of the services of any of these individuals could have a detrimental effect on the Corporation. There is no guarantee that the Corporation will retain members of its management team, and if the Corporation were to lose a member of its management team unexpectedly, its business, prospects, financial condition and results of operations may be adversely affected.

Confidentiality of personal and health information

Employees and consultants of the Corporation and its subsidiaries, in the course of their duties, will have access to personal health information and, specifically, medical histories of patients or claimants of clients of the Corporation. There can be no assurance that the Corporation's policies, procedures and systems will be adequate to address privacy legislation or the privacy concerns of existing and future patients or clients. The Corporation could be liable for damages, fines, penalties, or reputational damage in the event of a privacy breach or if a patient or client's privacy is violated.

Reliance on third parties

Third parties, including electronic medical record and information technology vendors, are integral to the Corporation's operations. If, for any reason, the Corporation could no longer access the services provided by these third parties, the Corporation would need to obtain such services from other providers. This could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Uncertainty of liquidity and capital requirements

The Corporation's future capital requirements will depend on many factors, including the rate of growth of its patient base, the costs of expanding into new markets and the growth of the chronic pain, sports medicine, concussion, and workplace health services markets. In order to meet such capital requirements, the Corporation may consider additional public or private financing (including the incurrence of debt and the issuance of additional equity securities) to fund all or a part of particular programs, which could entail dilution of the Common Shares. There can be no assurance that additional funding will be available when needed or, if available, that it will be available on favourable terms. If the Corporation fails to obtain adequate capital on a timely basis or if capital cannot be obtained at reasonable costs, the Corporation may have to curtail acquisition activities, reduce substantially or otherwise eliminate certain expenditures, including marketing of its services, or obtain funds through arrangements with corporate partners that may require the Corporation to relinquish rights to certain assets. There can be no assurance that the Corporation will be able to raise additional capital if its capital resources are exhausted.

The Corporation's financial results and results of operations have fluctuated in past and may continue to be volatile going forward

The Corporation's financial results may fluctuate as a result of a number of factors that may be outside of its control, which may cause the market price of the Common Shares to fall. For these reasons, comparing operating results on a period-to-period basis may not be meaningful, and an investor should not rely on past results as an indication of future performance. Financial results may be negatively affected by any of the risk factors listed in this "Risk Factors" section.

The Corporation is subject to risks associated with leasing space and equipment. Any failure to make lease payments when due, or the inability to extend, renew or continue to lease space and equipment in key locations, would likely harm the Corporation's business, profitability and results of operations

The Corporation leases all of its clinic locations. In accordance with the Corporation's growth strategy, it also intends to expand into new geographic regions within Canada. Accordingly, the Corporation is subject to all of the risks associated with leasing, occupying and making tenant improvements to real property.

The success of any of the Corporation's clinics depends substantially upon its location. There can be no assurance that the Corporation's current locations will continue to be desirable in the future, or that the Corporation will be able to secure new desirable locations in the future on favourable terms or at all. Patient conversion and revenues may be adversely affected by, among other things, social and economic conditions in a particular area, competition from nearby pain management treatment facilities, out-of-pocket treatment costs, and changing lifestyle choices of patients in a particular market. If the Corporation cannot obtain desirable locations at reasonable costs, the Corporation's cost structure will increase and its revenues will be adversely affected.

Some of the lease agreements have additional renewal options. However, there can be no assurances that the Corporation will be able to extend, renew or continue to lease its existing clinic locations, or identify and secure alternative suitable locations.

The Corporation depends on cash flow from operations to pay its lease expenses and to fulfill other cash needs. If the Corporation's business does not generate sufficient cash flow from operating activities to fund these expenses and sufficient funds are not otherwise available, the Corporation may not be able to service its lease expenses, which could harm its business. If an existing or future location is not profitable, and the Corporation decides to close it, the Corporation may nonetheless be committed to perform its obligations under the applicable lease including, among other things, paying the base rent for the balance of the lease term. In addition, if the Corporation is not able to enter into new leases or renew existing leases on terms acceptable to it, this could have an adverse effect on the Corporation's business and financial condition.

The regulatory framework in which the Corporation operates is constantly evolving Healthcare laws and regulations are constantly evolving and could change significantly in the future. The Corporation closely monitors these developments and will modify its operations from time to time as the regulatory environment requires. There can be no assurances, however, that the Corporation will always be able to adapt its operations to address new law or regulations or that new laws or regulations will not adversely affect the Corporation's business. In addition, although the Corporation believes that it is operating materially in compliance with applicable federal and provincial laws and regulations, neither the Corporation's current or anticipated business operations nor the operations of the Corporation's contracted physician practices have been the subject of judicial or regulatory interpretation. The Corporation cannot assure investors that a review of the Corporation's business by courts or regulatory authorities will not result in a determination that could materially adversely affect the Corporation's operations or that the healthcare regulatory environment will not change in a way that materially restricts the Corporation's operations. Furthermore, governments, government agencies and industry self-regulatory bodies in the Canada may, from time to time, adopt statutes, regulations and rulings that directly or indirectly affect the activities of the Corporation. These regulations could adversely impact the Corporation's ability to execute its business strategy and generate revenues as planned.

Insurance

All physicians working for the Corporation will be covered by their own malpractice insurance policies. In addition, the Corporation will maintain general liability, fire and flood insurance with policy specifications, limits and deductions for its clinics. There can be no assurance that the coverage will be sufficient or that, in the future, policies will be available at adequate levels of insurance or at acceptable costs. Moreover, there are certain types of risks, generally of a catastrophic nature, such as wars or natural disasters, which are either uninsurable or not insurable on an economically viable basis. Should an uninsured or underinsured loss occur, the assets of the Corporation may not be sufficient to satisfy these losses and this may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Reliance on reimbursements by third-party insurance providers

The Corporation's revenue levels will be affected by the percentage of its patients with third-party insurance coverage. A patient's insurance coverage may change for a number of reasons, including changes in the patient's or a family member's employment status. If there is a significant change in the Corporation's payor mix, resulting in a reduction in the number of patients with third-party insurance coverage declining, the Corporation's revenues, earnings and cash flows could be substantially reduced.

Social Media

Increasingly, social media is used as a vehicle to carry out cyber phishing attacks. Information posted on social media sites, for business or personal purposes, may be used by attackers to gain entry into the Corporation's systems and obtain confidential information. The Corporation does not restrict access to social media but instead educates its employees on the potential risks to the business. Despite these efforts, there are significant risks that the Corporation may not be able to properly regulate social media use and preserve adequate records of business activities and client communications conducted through the use of social media platforms.

Internal controls

Effective internal controls are necessary for the Corporation to provide reliable financial reports and to help prevent fraud. Although the Corporation will undertake a number of procedures and will implement a number of safeguards, in each case, in order to help ensure the reliability of its financial reports, including those imposed on the Corporation under applicable securities laws, the Corporation cannot be certain that such measures will ensure that the Corporation will maintain adequate control over financial processes and reporting. Failure to implement required new or improved controls, or difficulties encountered in their implementation, could harm the Corporation's results of operations or cause it to fail to meet its reporting obligations. If the Corporation or its auditors discover a material weakness, the disclosure of that fact, even if quickly remedied, could reduce the market's confidence in the Corporation's consolidated financial statements and materially adversely affect the trading price of the Common Shares.

Billing and collection systems

The Corporation's billing system is critical to the Corporation's billing operations. If there are defects in the billing system, the Corporation may experience difficulties in its ability to successfully bill and collect for services rendered, including a delay in collections, a reduction in the amounts collected, increased risk of retractions from and refunds to commercial and government payors, an increase in uncollectible accounts receivable and non-compliance with reimbursement regulations, any or all of which could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's revenues, cash flows and operating results.

In addition, the Corporation accepts payments using a variety of methods, including credit cards and debit cards. For existing and future payment methods the Corporation offers its patients, the Corporation may become subject to additional regulations and compliance requirements, as well as fraudulent activities. For certain payment methods, including credit and debit cards, the Corporation pays interchange and other fees, which may increase over time, raising the Corporation's operating costs and lowering profitability. The Corporation relies on third party service providers for payment processing services, including the processing of credit and debit cards. The Corporation's business may be negatively affected if these third-party service providers become unwilling or unable to provide these services to the Corporation. The Corporation is also subject to payment card association operating rules, including data security and management rules, certification requirements and rules governing electronic funds transfers and if the Corporation fails to comply with these rules or requirements, or if the Corporation's data security systems are breached or compromised, the Corporation may be liable for card issuing banks' costs, subject to fines and higher transaction fees and/or lose its ability to accept credit and debit card payments from its patients and process electronic funds transfers or facilitate other types of payments, and the Corporation's business and operating results may be adversely affected.

Restrictions imposed by the RBC Credit Facility

The Credit Facility imposes certain significant operating and financial restrictions on the Corporation. The Credit Facility includes various restrictive covenants relating to future acquisitions, indebtedness, operations, investments, capital expenditures and other standard operating business covenants, which significantly limit the ability of certain of the Corporation's material operating subsidiaries.

These restrictions could limit the Corporation's ability to capitalize on attractive growth opportunities for its business or otherwise engage in activities that may be in the Corporation's long-term best interests that are currently unforeseeable, particularly if the Corporation is unable to secure financing or make investments to take advantage of such opportunities.

The failure of the Corporation to comply with these covenants could result in an event of default that, if not cured or waived, could result in the acceleration of substantially all amounts outstanding under the Credit Facility. The Corporation may not have sufficient working capital to satisfy such debt obligations in the event of an acceleration of the Credit Facility, which accounts for a significant portion of the Corporation's outstanding indebtedness. The Credit Facility is secured by all of the assets of the Corporation.

Risks of pending or future legal proceedings

From time to time, the Corporation is involved in litigation relating to, among other things, labour, health and safety matters, regulatory, tax and administrative proceedings, governmental investigations, arbitration and contractual claims and disputes. In particular, the Corporation can be subject to claims relating to actions of medical personnel performing services at the Corporation's clinics.

Litigation is inherently costly and unpredictable, making it difficult to accurately estimate the outcome, among other matters. Although the Corporation has established financial provisions and contingencies which it believes are individually appropriate, there is a risk that on a cumulative basis, adverse decisions in such matters could materially affect the Corporation's financial condition or results of operations if such contingencies vary significantly from any amounts actually paid. In addition, if the Corporation were to receive an unfavourable decision through such proceedings, the Corporation may suffer reputational damage as a result, which could have an adverse effect on the Corporation's business and its ability to grow.

Any litigation could result in substantial costs and diversion of resources and could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial conditions and results of operations.

The Corporation may be subject to additional taxes, which could affect the Corporation's operating results

The Corporation and its subsidiaries file all required income tax returns and is of the view that it is in material compliance with all applicable tax laws. However, such tax returns are subject to reassessment by the applicable jurisdictional tax authorities and the Corporation has been subject to such reassessments from time to time. In the event of a reassessment of the Corporation's tax returns, such reassessment may have an impact on current and future taxes payable.

Legislative changes may also have an adverse impact on the Corporation's operations and performance. Changes in tax related laws and regulations, and interpretations thereof, can affect tax burdens by increasing tax rates and fees, creating new taxes, limiting tax deductions, and eliminating tax-based incentives. In addition, jurisdictional tax authorities or courts may interpret tax regulations differently than the Corporation does, which could result in tax litigation and additional costs and penalties. Such legislative changes may have an adverse impact on the Corporation's business, financial condition and results from operations.

Global, political and economic conditions and uncertainties may impact the Corporation's operations

Uncertainty, downturns and changes that impact the Corporation's business can arise as a result of conditions in global financial markets, changes in macroeconomic factors, changes in laws and regulations, political conditions and election outcomes, political and social unrest, wars and conflicts, terrorist acts, cyber-attacks, economic and regulatory sanctions, natural disasters and public health crises (such as epidemics and pandemics, including COVID-19) and other factors over which the Corporation has no control. The global economy continues to experience substantial disruption and uncertainty due to rising geopolitical tensions, including the Russian invasion of Ukraine and related government sanctions and the ongoing Israel-Hamas conflict, ongoing protectionism measures due to a decline in global alignment, aggressive monetary tightening, weaker global demand, evolving interest rate increases and inflationary backdrop, supply chain disruptions, labour shortages and other events. These factors may create unprecedented economic conditions including the possibility of an economic recession, that may last substantially longer than expected and create stress on economic growth and market volatility. The Corporation is unable to predict the extent of impact or duration of any such economic conditions, or their ultimate impact on operations of the Corporation. Such events could have an adverse impact on the Corporation's business, financial condition and results from operations.

Interest Rates

The Corporation's consolidated debt may accrue interest at a floating rate, and therefore the Corporation may be exposed to interest rate cash flow risk on floating interest rate bank debt due to fluctuations in market interest rates.

Default on obligations to pay material debt facilities

The Corporation may incur additional indebtedness subject to certain limitations. If the Corporation is unable to generate sufficient cash flow or is otherwise unable to obtain funds necessary to meet required payments of principal, premium, if any, and interest on the Corporation's indebtedness, or if the Corporation otherwise fails to comply with the various covenants in the instruments governing its indebtedness, the Corporation could be in default under the terms of the agreements governing this indebtedness. In this event, the holders of such indebtedness could elect to declare all the funds borrowed thereunder to be due and payable, together with accrued and unpaid interest; the lenders could elect to terminate their commitments, cease making further loans and institute foreclosure proceedings against the Corporation's assets and the Corporation could be forced into bankruptcy or liquidation. If the Corporation's operating performance declines, it may need to obtain waivers from the required lenders to avoid being in default. If the Corporation breaches these covenants and seeks a waiver from the required lenders, it may not be able to obtain it. If this occurs, the Corporation would be in default under its indebtedness, the lenders could exercise their rights, as described above, and the Corporation could be forced into bankruptcy or liquidation.

Management assumptions and contingencies

Actual results may differ materially from management estimates and assumptions. In preparing consolidated financial statements in conformity with International Financial Reporting Standards, estimates and assumptions are used by management in determining the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, revenues and expenses recognized during the periods presented and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities known to exist as of the date of the financial statements. These estimates and assumptions must be made because certain information that is used in the preparation of such financial statements is dependent on future events, and cannot be calculated with a high degree of certainty from information available and the Corporation must exercise significant judgment in applying its accounting policies, estimates and assumptions about the future.

Estimates may be used in management's assessment of items such as fair values, income taxes, net operating earnings or loss, contingent liabilities and reported amount of assets. Actual results for all estimates could differ materially from the estimates and assumptions used by the Corporation, which may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition, results from operations and business prospects.

In addition, the presentation of financial information in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board requires that management apply certain accounting policies and make certain estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts in the Corporation's consolidated financial statements. The accounting policies may result in non-cash charges to net income and write-downs of net assets in the consolidated financial statements. Such non-cash charges and write-downs may be viewed unfavourably by the market and may result in an inability to borrow funds and/or may result in a decline in the Common Share price.

Potential conflicts of interests

Certain directors and officers of the Corporation will also serve as directors and/or officers of other companies or may have significant shareholdings in other companies including companies in the same sector. Consequently, there exists the possibility for such directors and officers to be in a position of conflict. Any decision made by any of such directors and officers will be made in accordance with their duties and obligations to deal fairly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Corporation and its shareholders. In addition, each of the directors is required to declare and refrain from voting on any matter in which such directors may have a conflict of interest, in accordance with the procedures set forth in the OBCA and other applicable laws.

Increased costs as a result of being a public corporation

As a public issuer, the Corporation is subject to the reporting requirements and rules and regulations under the applicable Canadian securities laws and rules of any stock exchange on which the Corporation's securities may be listed from time to time. Additional or new regulatory requirements may be adopted in the future. The requirements of existing and potential future rules and regulations will increase the Corporation's legal, accounting and financial compliance costs, make some activities more difficult, time-consuming or costly and may also place undue strain on its personnel, systems and resources, which could adversely affect its business, financial condition, and results of operations.

The Corporation is a holding company

The Corporation is a holding company and virtually all of its assets consist of the equity it holds in its subsidiaries. As a result, investors are subject to the risks attributable to the Corporation's subsidiaries and any and all future affiliates. The Corporation does not have any significant assets and conducts substantially all of its business through its subsidiaries, which generate all or substantially all of the Corporation's revenues. The ability of the Corporation's subsidiaries to distribute funds to the Corporation will depend on their operating results, tax considerations and will be subject to applicable laws and regulations which require that solvency and capital standards be maintained by these subsidiaries and contractual restrictions contained in the instruments governing their debt, existing or if incurred. In the event of a bankruptcy, liquidation or reorganization of one or more of the Corporation's subsidiaries or any other future subsidiary, holders of indebtedness and trade creditors will generally be entitled to payment of their claims from the assets of those subsidiaries before any assets are made available for distribution to the Corporation.

Risks Related to the Common Shares

The Common Shares will be subject to various factors that may make the price of the Common Shares volatile

The market price of the Common Shares could fluctuate significantly, in which case it may not be possible to re-sell the Common Shares at or above the price of the Common Shares today. The market price of the Common Shares may fluctuate based on a number of factors in addition to those set out elsewhere herein, including: (i) the Corporation's operating performance and the performance of the competitors and other similar companies; (ii) the public's reaction to the Corporation's news releases, other public announcements and the Corporation's filings with the various securities regulatory authorities; (iii) changes in earnings estimates or recommendations by research analysts who track the Common Shares or the securities of other companies in the industry that the Corporation operates; (iv) changes in the general economic conditions and the overall condition of the financial markets; (v) the arrival or departure of key personnel; and (vi) acquisition, strategic alliances or joint ventures involving the Corporation or its competitors.

In addition, the market price of the Common Shares will be affected by many variables not directly related to the Corporation's success and not within the Corporation's control, including developments that affect the healthcare industry as a whole, the breadth of the public market for the Common Shares, and the attractiveness of alternative investments. In addition, securities markets have experienced an extreme level of price and volume volatility, and the market price of securities of many companies has experienced wide fluctuations which have not necessarily been related to the operating performance, underlying asset values or prospects of such companies. As a result of these and other factors, the price of the Common Shares may be volatile in the future and may decline below the price of the Common Shares today. Accordingly, investors may not be able to sell its Common Shares at or above the price of the Common Shares today.

Liquidity

The price of the Common Shares may fluctuate in response to a number of events and factors, including but not limited to: the Corporation's financial condition, financial performance and future prospects, public announcements and the Corporation's filings with the various securities regulatory authorities and changes in general market and economic conditions. There can be no assurance that an active and liquid market will be developed for the Common Shares, and if developed, it may not be sustained, and an investor may find it difficult to resell any securities of the Corporation.

Dilution

The Corporation may require additional funds in respect of the further development of its business. If the Corporation raises funds by issuing additional equity securities, such financing will dilute the equity interest of its shareholders.

Any future profits will likely be used for the continued growth of the business and products and will not be used to pay dividends on the issued and outstanding Common Shares

The Corporation will not pay dividends on the issued and outstanding Common Shares in the foreseeable future. If the Corporation generates any future earnings such cash resources will be retained to finance further growth and current operations. The Board will determine if and when dividends should be declared and paid in the future based on the Corporation's financial position and other factors relevant at the particular time. Until the Corporation pays dividends, which it may never do, a shareholder will not be able to receive a return on his or her investment in the Common Shares unless such Common Shares are sold. In such event, a shareholder may only be able to sell his, her or its Common Shares at a price less than the price such shareholder originally paid for them, which could result in a significant loss of such shareholder's investment.

Significant shareholders

The shareholding levels of certain shareholders of the Corporation will give such shareholders significant influence on decisions to be made by shareholders, including the ability to influence the election of directors of the Corporation as well as the approval of future transactions requiring shareholder approval. There is a risk that the interests of the Corporation's significant shareholders will differ from those of other shareholders.

Sale of the Corporation's securities by directors, officers and/or significant shareholders

Subject to compliance with applicable securities laws, directors, officers and/or significant shareholders may sell some or all of their Common Shares in the future. No prediction can be made as to the effect, if any, such future sales of Common Shares by directors, officers and/or significant shareholders will have on the market price of the Common Shares prevailing from time to time. However, the future sale of a substantial number of Common Shares by management shareholders and/or significant shareholders, or the perception that such sales could occur, could adversely affect prevailing market prices for the Common Shares.

If industry analysts cease to publish research or publish inaccurate or unfavourable research about the Corporation or its business, the Corporation's trading price of its Common Shares or its trading volume could decline

The trading market for the Common Shares depends in part on the research and reports that industry or securities analysts publish about the Corporation or the Corporation's business. If the Corporation obtains industry or securities analyst coverage and if one or more of the analysts who cover the Corporation downgrade the Common Shares, the trading price of the Common Shares may decline. If one or more of the analysts cease coverage of the Corporation or fails to publish reports on the Corporation regularly, the Corporation could lose visibility in the financial markets, which in turn could cause the Common Share price or trading volume to decline. Moreover, if the Corporation's results of operations do not meet the expectations of the investor community, or one or more of the analysts who cover the Corporation publishes inaccurate or unfavourable research about the Corporation's business, the trading price of the Common Shares may decline.

Maintaining TSXV listing standards

The Corporation must meet continuing listing standards to maintain the listing of its Common Shares on the TSXV and there is no assurance that it will do so. If the Corporation fails to comply with listing standards the TSXV delists its Common Shares, the Corporation and its shareholders could face significant material adverse consequences, including significantly reduced liquidity for its Common Shares.

As a public company, the Corporation is subject to evolving corporate governance and public disclosure regulations that may from time to time increase both the Corporation's compliance costs and the risk of non-compliance, which could adversely impact the price of the Common Shares.

DIVIDENDS

There are no restrictions in the Corporation's articles or by-laws preventing the Corporation from paying dividends. However, the provisions of the RBC Credit Facility contain certain restrictions and covenants that, subject to certain exceptions, limit the Corporation's ability to pay dividends. In addition, the payment of dividends by the Corporation is governed by the liquidity and insolvency tests described in the OBCA which provides that a corporation shall not declare a dividend if there are reasonable grounds for believing that such corporation is insolvent or the payment of the dividend would render such corporation insolvent.

The Corporation has not declared or paid any dividends since incorporation. The Board anticipates that the Corporation will retain all future earnings and other cash resources for the future operation and development of its business, and accordingly, does not intend to declare or pay any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Payment of any future dividends will be at the discretion of the Board after taking into account many factors including the Corporation's operating results, financial condition, current and anticipated cash assets and any restrictive covenants under any material credit or commercial agreements.

Description of Stock Options

In connection with the Qualifying Transaction, the Corporation adopted an amended and restated stock option plan (the “2020 Stock Option Plan”), which was initially approved by the shareholders of the Corporation at the Annual and Special Meeting of Shareholders held on June 25, 2021.

Options to purchase Common Shares of the Corporation (“Stock Options”) may not be exercised later than 90 days following the date the optionee ceases to be a director, officer or employee of the Corporation or its affiliates or a consultant or a management company employee, provided that if the cessation of such position or arrangement was by reason of death, the option may be exercised within a maximum period of one year after such death, subject to the expiry date of such Stock Option.

On November 24, 2021, the TSXV announced significant amendments to its policies regarding security-based compensation, which took effect immediately. In accordance with the security-based compensation changes, the TSXV amended its form policy and renamed it Policy 4.4 - Security Based Compensation (the new Policy 4.4 – Security Based Compensation, as at November 24, 2021, is referred to hereunder as the “New Policy”). Consequently, the Corporation further amended and restated the 2020 Stock Option Plan (the “Amended Stock Option Plan”) to ensure that it complies with the requirements of the New Policy and also provide for new features that are permitted under the New Policy as more particularly described below. The Amended Stock Option Plan received shareholder approval at the Annual General and Special Meeting of Shareholders held on June 22, 2022 and was ratified and confirmed at the Annual and Special Meeting of Shareholders on June 14, 2023.

The material terms of the Amended Stock Option Plan are substantially similar to the 2020 Stock Option Plan. A key material change to the 2020 Stock Option Plan is that under the Amended Stock Option Plan, the Board may, in its discretion, grant any Eligible Person (as defined in the Amended Stock Option Plan) the ability to complete a “cashless exercise” or “net exercise” in accordance with the New Policy. Additionally, under the Amended Stock Option Plan, any adjustment to the Common Shares issuable under the Amended Stock Option Plan as a result of a subdivision, consolidation, spin-off, merger, acquisition, reclassification or such other capital reorganization will be subject to approval by the TSXV.

The Amended Stock Option Plan will continue to be considered a “rolling” plan and pursuant to the policies of the TSXV, will require annual shareholder approval. Pursuant to the Amended Stock Option Plan, the maximum number of Common Shares reserved for issuance is equal to 10% of the number of Common Shares issued and outstanding, on a non-diluted basis, at any time. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the number of Common Shares issued or to be issued under the Amended Stock Option Plan and all other security-based compensation agreements shall not exceed 20% of the total number of issued and outstanding Common Shares, on a non-diluted basis, as at the relevant grant date.

As of the date of this AIF, 4,419,671 Stock Options were issued under and governed by the terms of the Amended Stock Option Plan (4,496,391 Stock Options as of December 31, 2023).

Pursuant to the RSU Plan, the Board may grant restricted share units (“RSUs”) to directors, officers, employees and consultants of the Corporation, subject to the terms and conditions of the RSU Plan. A maximum of 3,000,000 Common Shares have been reserved for issuance under the RSU Plan. RSUs may be granted by the Board with such vesting conditions (typically based on continued service or achievement of personal or corporate objectives) as the Board may determine in its sole discretion. Each vested RSU may be redeemed for (i) one Common Share, (ii) cash representing the fair market value of such Common Shares on the vesting date or (iii) a combination of (i) and (ii), as determined by the Board in its sole discretion. Certain holders of RSUs may defer the receipt of all or any part of their entitlement to Common Shares and/or cash consideration in lieu of such Common Shares until a later date, in accordance with, and subject to restrictions as further set out in the RSU Plan.

Under the RSU Plan, any adjustment to the Common Shares issuable thereunder as a result of a subdivision, consolidation, spinoff, merger, acquisition, reclassification or such other capital reorganization will be subject to TSXV approval.
